

Trout Creek and Eagle's Nest Gazette

June 2021

Greetings Trout Creek and Eagle's Nest Scholars and Families,

The school year is coming to a close and it has been quite somber for me. With the little time that I've had the chance to meet and know the children in E1, I can say that I am truly grateful to know every single one of them. I have seen students thriving and appreciate so much that they have allowed me to guide them through to the end of the school year and try to learn as much and as best as they can. I really look to them for guidance in their learning and have observed much growth in them. They have shown vulnerability and humility, they have shown leadership skills, and how to be role models. I enjoy seeing those in person begin to take ownership of their actions and let their interpersonal skills shine with having a voice and speaking up. I have also enjoyed the children online in discussions, the sharing of interests, and the interactions in distance learning and appreciate that they are present in learning with everyone. I am blessed to know that we have strong willed children at LJJM and am more than happy to be their guide. I hope everyone has a pleasant summer break and return in the Fall of 2021 refreshed and ready for another great school year! Lastly, we look forward to seeing you all at our end of the year celebration. The children have been practicing their special performances for their loved ones!
